

WASHINGTON RIVER PROTECTION SOLUTIONS

Hanford's Tank Farms

Washington River Protection Solutions (WRPS) is located on the Hanford Site in Richland, WA. WRPS is reducing the risk to the environment posed by Hanford's 56 million gallons of highly radioactive nuclear waste stored in 177 underground tanks located on the 586-square-mile site. The tank waste is remaining from the nuclear weapons production during and after World War II.

As a prime contractor to the U.S. Department of Energy's Office of River Protection WRPS is responsible for safely maintaining the waste until it is prepared for disposal. WRPS is committed to the safe and efficient management of radioactive waste until the Waste Treatment Plant is complete.

WRPS is a limited liability corporation owned by Amentum and Atkins, with Orano Federal Services as our primary subcontractor. This partnership brings decades of experience to the job, which is considered one of the most complex cleanup projects in the nation.

Small Business Opportunities

WRPS is committed to consistent growth, maximization and utilization of small businesses to contribute to the tank farm mission. WRPS strives to develop, promote and challenge small businesses to gain overall project efficiency. In line with DOE's vision and goals, WRPS seeks to create meaningful opportunities within the small business community.

WRPS is an active sponsor for many small business outreach events in the Tri-Cities Community, including, "Meet the Buyer", The Small Business Incentive Program, and the Premier Sponsor of the Women in Business Conference.
